Passing down the ball

► London City Soccer Club is the oldest professional soccer club in North America ► Team has been passed down through three generations of Gauss family ► They lost both games this season heading into Friday's home opener

JIM REYNO

After three generations of long hours, hard work and money spent, Ryan Gauss wants to be there for the payoff.

The general manager and CEO of London City Soccer Club wants to "achieve something great."

"(We're) really trying to finally get back into the playoffs after a decade, and finally trying to really make a run here and get Londoners excited about professional soccer again," said Gauss. "I think that's why I haven't bowed out."

Gauss's paternal grandfather, Markus, started the team in 1973; Gauss's father Harry took over a few years later.

From the get-go, it was a hands-on operation, sometimes on hands and knees.

"Growing up, I was at the field every game with my dad, selling game-ball tickets for the raffle for the game ball, cleaning underneath the stands and doing just about everything," said Gauss, giving credit to the team's "amazing support staff."

"I've done every job that I could do at the club, and I still do it. I'm still out there cleaning under the stands, I'm still out there putting up banners — I'm still out there doing it all. It's a very grassroots organization."

Five years ago, Harry was diagnosed with a brain tumour and Gauss took over on what was intended to be a temporary basis. Harry died two years ago, and Gauss became CEO.

"When I took over five years ago, it was to keep the seat warm for my dad. When dad passed away, now it's been to carry on his legacy," said Gauss, 25.

"I have a passion for it, but my dad lived and breathed this club."

And how do you put a price tag on passion?

Gauss said the team can lose up to $25,000 per season, and wouldn't exist without its sponsors and community support.

"Yes we lose some money, but that's a decision that my dad made — my family made — years ago to do," Gauss said. "And we keep going, keep going."

Safety blitz to focus on youth workers

► Mayor Joe Fontana, Attorney General Chris Bentley and London-Fanshawe MPP Khalil Ramal were among the officials attending Charles Sousa's workplace health and safety visit at the Aquatic Centre

MARINA BRKLJACA/FOR METRO

► Ontario Labour Minister Charles Sousa talks to lifeguards at the Aquatic Centre on Wonderland Road about the importance of health and safety at the workplace. Sousa spoke to city officials, employees and young workers at the Aquatic Centre yesterday about the four-month safety blitz Ontario is launching that focuses on young workers.

Labour Minister Charles Sousa was spreading the word about Ontario's four-month safety blitz yesterday at the Aquatic Centre on Wonderland Road.

During the blitz, which focuses on workplaces with young workers, labour inspectors will visit hundreds of workplaces where young people are employed. They want to make sure risks and workers' rights are known and that employees are properly trained and supervised.

Sousa said there will be

"It's great for the ministry to come here and proclaim this new initiative and work with the City of London to make sure we have young workers and young workers are safe."

MAYOR JOE FONTANA

zero tolerance for offenders.

"I cringe when my BlackBerry buzzes because it's notifying me of an injury or death," said Sousa.

Sousa, a father of three, said since being sworn in this past December he has heard too many heart-breaking stories from mothers, fathers and loved ones.

At a news conference, Emily Roadhouse, 29, spoke about her family's loss after a workplace accident. Her cousin, Christopher Turnbull, was killed in an industrial accident in North Dumfries Township in 2005.

"If I can speak out, and I can make one person stop and think — I can make one person ask a question, take that extra minute — then I am honouring Christopher's memory," said Roadhouse.

Labour Minister Charles Sousa says young (under 25 years old) and new workers should know:

- They have a right to a safe workplace.
- They have the right to be trained.
- They have the right to supervision.
- They can refuse work.

London takes action against diseases

Officials with the Middlesex-London Health Unit have launched their annual campaign to prevent West Nile virus, but this year they're also guarding against lyme disease by watching for black-legged ticks.

"West Nile virus and lyme disease ... are transmitted to humans via the bites of infected insects; mosquitoes can carry West Nile Virus and certain ticks can carry lyme disease," said Jeremy Hogeveen, the health unit's vector-borne disease co-ordinator.

"The public can help us reduce mosquito populations by removing standing water from their property, and they can assist in determining if black-legged ticks have arrived here by submitting any ticks they find on themselves or family members."

Some people think they can dance, others want to dance. For the members of the Dance Steps dance school, they've just Gotta Dance — and Londoners will have two opportunities to see the results of that passion on Saturday at Althouse College.

"We, as dancers, feel that way," said Donna Bayley, the director of Dance Steps Studio. "We just have to dance."

Hence the name of the show, Gotta Dance. All students from both the company and non-competitive programs will appear on stage. In all, approximately 300 students will perform 84 numbers, split evenly

Mayor named honorary chair

ABILITY FIRST. Mayor Joe Fontana was named honorary chair of the Ability First Coalition, a not-for-profit organization of volunteers that encourages businesses to hire persons with disabilities.

In his first official act as chair, Fontana challenged the London business community.

"I want every business leader and employer to consider how they can recruit and hire more persons with disabilities," he said in a release. "There are multiple tools in place that make the workplace open to everyone, and London should be a leader in demonstrating how a worker's ability is not measured by a disability but by the value they bring to the job."

HIV-positive man faces second sex assault charge

A 33-year-old HIV-positive London man is now facing a second charge of aggravated sexual assault.

The latest charge against Daniel Gracie was announced during a bail hearing in a London court yesterday.

He was initially arrested earlier this month in connection with a sexual encounter in February 2010. Police allege the suspect had known he was HIV positive since 2002 but did not tell his female partner, who has since tested positive.

No details about the second charge were provided. AM980/AM980.CA

► At the time of Daniel Gracie's original arrest, police said they were concerned the suspect may have had sexual encounters with other women and were encouraging them to come forward and get tested for HIV.

McGuinty blasts Tories' health plan

► Says health care has never been priority for Ontario Conservatives ► Hudak questions premier's leadership

Premier Dalton McGuinty took aim at the Progressive Conservatives' latest campaign promises yesterday, saying health care has never been one of their priorities and suggested there would be cuts to the sector if the Tories are elected this fall.

The premier said he was intrigued by Leader Tim Hudak's pledge to boost spending on health care by $6.1 billion over four years if he wins the Oct. 6 election, since he's never asked the premier a health-care question in the legislature.

"Maybe I'm forgetting something, but (I don't recall) him ever standing up and saying that we need to enhance the number of our nurses, or we need to do more to get wait times down, we need to put a few more family health teams in place," McGuinty said. "I prefer to look at their record when it comes to these kinds of things — I know what they say, but I know what they've done."

Hudak fired back, saying the PCs have laid out ways to find savings, such as shutting down the province's 14 local health integration networks, as well as the Ontario Power Authority.

"We're going to spend less money than the Liberals, we're going to actually set priorities," said Hudak. "We've seen the failure of Dalton McGuinty's leadership because he threw money at every problem under the sun, and now we've ended up with a big deficit."

🟡 Retiring auditor general Sheila Fraser delivers warnings 🟡 Interim AG will be named next week

Auditor general Sheila Fraser delivered a farewell address yesterday in typical blunt-spoken fashion — warning government to start counting the costs of climate change and addressing the “quite tragic” living conditions of First Nations peoples.

Fraser's eventful, politically charged 10-year term as auditor general ends on Monday.

While the bespectacled, matronly 60-year-old said she believes retired auditors general should "sort of fade away," she made sure to leave with a bang.

In a luncheon speech to hundreds of Ottawa power brokers and bureaucrats, Fraser said Canada has to start measuring the massive, long-term financial

Our smart bombs rain on Libya

► Military says Canada's jets dropped 240 laser-guided missiles

Canadian warplanes have dropped 240 laser-guided bombs on Libyan targets since March 31, the military says.

But the Canadian Forces won't reveal two other key aspects of the country's mission in Libya.

The questions:

What's the cost to taxpayers of those 227-kilogram bombs?

What's the price tag for the Libya mission to date?

Brig-Gen. Richard Blanchette revealed the number of bombs in the weekly briefing on Canada's participation in the NATO-led air campaign over Libya.

Just a week earlier, he deemed that information off limits for "operational security" reasons.

NDP Leader Jack Layton said the time has come for the government to come clean on the dirty details of Canada's participation in the United Nations-sanctioned international military campaign to protect civilians from attacks by their leader, Moammar Gadhafi.

Layton called yesterday for a full debate with Canada's participation about to enter its third month.

Meanwhile, U.S. President Barack Obama and British Prime Minister David Cameron both pledged to keep pummeling Gadhafi's forces until he is driven from power.

Obama said it will be a "slow, steady process" to beat him. Cameron said "patience and persistence" will both be needed.

Hands off the Internet, nations warned

Internet activists warned yesterday that if global leaders attempt to limit access to the web, their restrictions will be bypassed and they will become irrelevant.

The stark message adds to growing resistance — from big-name companies like Google and Twitter to anonymous Internet vigilantes who have attacked government censorship networks — against creeping laws that might restrict services many users now take for granted.

The leaders of the Group of Eight most powerful countries were to begin meeting in France today to discuss issues of global concern in the wake of Arab uprisings that have been described as the first Internet-enabled revolutions.

is a fundamental human right," said Jean-Francois Julliard, who heads Reporters Without Borders.

Julliard said more than 60 countries now have some form of Internet censorship in place, and that number is growing.

Activist Nadine Wahab said the lesson from the uprisings in Egypt and Tunisia should be: "Leave the Internet alone."

A real smart choice?

Younger users are driving the growing adoption of smartphones and mobile technology in Canada, suggests a new report.

It's estimated there are now more than 25-million mobile users in Canada and the younger users are ditching their older cell-phones for BlackBerrys, iPhones and Google Android phones.

About 2,000 mobile users were surveyed.

Syrian crackdown's youngest victims?

- Opposition group says some children died 'under severe torture'
- State-run newspaper quotes president as promising reforms are in store

More than 25 children, some of them tortured, are among the victims of the Syrian government's deadly crackdown on an uprising that has killed more than 1,000 people over the past two months, an opposition group said yesterday.

The Local Co-ordination Committees in Syria, which helps organize the protests against President Bashar Assad, identified the children and the circumstances of their death. Syria has blocked media access in the country, making it impossible to verify the reports independently.

The children ranged in age from five to 17. Many appeared to have been killed in crossfire, such as Mahmood Alkadree, 12, who was struck by four bullets when he went out to buy bread for his family in the Damascus suburb of Douma, the statement said.

The body of 15-year-old Ahmad Radwan was found in the orchards of the coastal town of Baniyas, shot once in the stomach and once in the chest. Majd Ibrahim Alrfaee, a seven-year-old girl from the southern province of Daraa, died from a gunshot to the abdomen, the report said.

The statement said that 13-year-old Saleh Ahmad Alkhateeb was kidnapped by security forces on April 29 in Daraa, only to be found dead the next day "covered with the effects of severe torture."

President Bashar Assad appears determined to crush the revolt, which is posing the most serious challenge to his family's 40-year ruling dynasty. The harsh crackdown has triggered international outrage and U.S. and European sanctions, including an EU assets freeze and a visa ban on Assad and nine members of his regime. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Hacking victims blasé with Sony

▶ Little fallout expected among people ▶ Complaints centre on entertainment giant's communication

David Campbell found out yesterday morning he was one of 2,000 Sony Ericsson customers from Canada whose personal data had been stolen and posted online for anyone to see.

He's been through a case of online fraud before and is resigned to the fact that information stored on the web is at risk. So he wasn't overly concerned to learn that his name and email were being shared by hackers. But he doesn't appreciate that Sony didn't alert him to the latest security breach to hit the entertainment giant.

"I guess (the data breach) is disappointing but in this modern day you'd probably be a little foolish to think that anything's safe," said Campbell, who works with the Stratford Shakespeare Festival.

Sony has been hit with a number of hacker attacks in recent weeks, the most notable coming last month and affecting more than 100-million accounts of PlayStation Network and Qriocity users. Names, birth dates, email addresses and log-ins were compromised. The company said in a statement issued yesterday that hackers on Sony Ericsson's Canadian site only accessed email addresses and encrypted passwords.

BARGAINING TABLE

Post office won't shut this week

Canada Post said yesterday there is enough time to negotiate a "fair and reasonable" settlement with postal workers since there's no potential for a strike this week.

Both sides were back at the table yesterday to continue negotiations aimed at avoiding a labour disruption.

"With no potential for a strike this week, there is plenty of time to negotiate a fair and reasonable deal," Canada Post said in a statement.

Under labour laws, each side has to give 72 hours' notice before beginning a strike or lock-out.

Canada Post rejected its union's latest contract proposal Tuesday, saying the offer would increase labour costs by $1.4 billion but then made a counter-proposal.

"Even with a continued decline in mail volumes and a $3-billion pension solvency deficit, Canada Post has tabled a competitive counter-offer to CUPW that gives employees better wages and protects their pensions and job security," the Crown corporation said yesterday.

Molson dynasty rules beer giant again

A seventh generation of the Molson family is taking the helm of Molson Coors as the brewer seeks to extend its global reach into emerging countries.

Andrew Molson, 43, becomes chairperson today, replacing Peter Coors as part of the biennial shift between the beer company's founding families.

The change comes as Molson celebrates its 225th anniversary of its entry into the Canadian beer industry.

Molson told shareholders yesterday the company plans to grow international sales of its existing Coors Light, Carling and Molson Canadian brands and pursue acquisitions.

Its international division grew beer volume by 27 per cent in 2010.

Abrupt exit for Tim Hortons CEO

FRANK GUNN/THE CANADIAN PRESS

▶ Tim Hortons ex-president and CEO Donald Schroeder.

Tim Hortons is hiring — Canada's No. 1 coffee chain is looking for a new leader after the abrupt departure of its CEO. The company announced yesterday that Don Schroeder, 65, no longer serves as president and CEO after three years at the helm and two decades as an employee.

Tim Hortons' board said it believes a change at the top at this time is best for the company. In the meantime, executive chairman Paul House, who has previously held the position of president and CEO, will take on the role on an interim basis.

The board said it was already engaged in comprehensive succession planning for the CEO position as part of its strategic planning.

Tim Hortons did not say why Schroeder was leaving so suddenly, but Brian Yarbrough, a retail analyst at Edward Jones in St. Louis, believes the fact that it could not reach a "transitional arrangement" is key.

CAN'T WE ALL JUST GET ALONG?

HE SAYS ...

JOHN MAZEROLLE
METRO

I have a stunning secret to reveal about cars and bicycles: They're controlled by people.

Weird, huh? It sounds Soy-lent Green, but it's true. If you look closely and aren't blinded by anger, you might even see a "cyclist" or "driver" yourself.

This little-known nugget must be revealed because I have bought a bicycle. I haven't ridden it yet because the shop is adding all the doodads needed in the modern urban cycling environment — pre-made legal forms, James Bond-style nail strip, basket with a flower on the front — but soon I'll be a cyclist.

In other words, I'm about to get a new perspective on the long-running feud that is Cars vs. Bikes. (Note the dehumanizing.)

What has always amazed me about this conflict is that the vast majority of people have both biked and driven cars. Everybody is on both sides. Yet to hear the "discussion" you would assume it was two different species that only ever contact each other on North America's roadways.

Why? My theory is that each group has an Idiot Quotient that ends up dominating the discussion; we literally remember the hits and forget the misses.

The worst cyclists, for instance, seem to compensate for their small carbon footprint by taking up as much roadway as possible. They also have a sort of persecution complex, where they see every open car door as an attempt to

"My theory is that each group has an Idiot Quotient that ends up dominating the discussion; we literally remember the hits and forget the misses."

injure. And while I have some tolerance for bikes on sidewalks, it's unacceptable to barrel down a sidewalk like Fred Flintstone stuck in his runaway Stoneway piano yelling, "Make way!"

The worst drivers, meanwhile, start complaining about The War on the Car if anything slows them down, including inertia. Never mind that they can get home faster than any human in history. If a Star Trek transporter beam existed and a three-minute delay could save the Alpha Quadrant, people would rant about The War on the Beam and how it's their right to use the fastest, space-time continuum-tearingest transporter available.

So I get it: Some of the anger on both sides is justified. But as someone with both a driver's licence and a bicycle, I say it's time for a new era.

After all, are we not human? If you scratch our vehicles, do we not curse and try to remove it with our thumb? If you wrong us, shall we not give you the finger and say, "Can you believe that guy?"

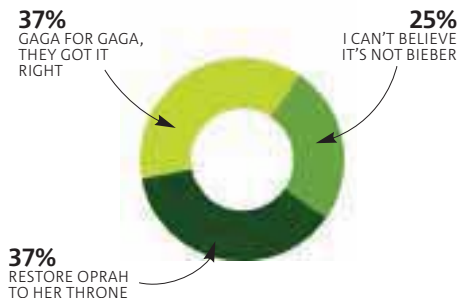

We must put aside our differences, stop stereotyping each other and remember our shared, common goal: Hatred of pedestrians. Those people are idiots, am I right?

What do you think of Lady Gaga dethroning Oprah Winfrey as the most powerful celebrity in the world, according to Forbes?

Worth mentioning

LONDON, England. Canada has cracked the top 10 in a global security assessment that ranks countries based on how peaceful they are.

The Global Peace Index ranked Canada eighth out of 153 countries, a six-spot jump over last year.

The index, produced by the Institute for Economics and Peace (IEP), suggests North America overall has improved slightly thanks in part to Canada's rise in the rankings. The United States was 82nd, compared to 85th last year. The index says if the U.S. reduced its violent crime rates to that of Canada's, the U.S. economy and its state governments could save billions of dollars on correctional services, health care and lost tax revenue.

Iceland regained the top spot after slipping in last year's index following violent demonstrations related to the collapse of its financial system, while Libya tumbled 83 spots to 143 in the largest drop in the index's history.

Overall, the index found the world is less peaceful for the third straight year.

Margaritaville has moved to a Mexican prison

Some prisoners learn woodworking or licence-plate making. But bartending?

A prison workshop in northern Mexico where inmates were supposed to be learning trades was found to contain a bar behind bars — complete with beer, vodka, tequila and billiard tables.

Federal police and local authorities discovered the bar Monday at a minimum-security prison in the northern state of Chihuahua, the state attorney general's office said in a statement.

Seized from the site were 20 bottles of vodka, 12 bottles of tequila, and 200 beer cans. Police also found three guns, 20 cellphones, 180 individual doses of marijuana and 90 doses of heroin.

The prison's deputy director was fired yesterday and prison guards are under investigation, said Jorge Chaires, a spokesman for the state's prosecutor for prisons.

Also yesterday, guards conducting a routine check at a prison in the northern state of Tamaulipas discovered 17 inmates missing, the state's Public Safety Department said in a statement. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It all started with Dr. Seuss.

"There's a line in The Lorax that says:

'Unless someone like you cares a whole awful lot, nothing is going to get better. It's not!'" said Katie Wilhelm, one of the founding members of the Grickle Grass Festival.

That line, and the story of Seuss's Lorax, inspired the London group 379 Collective to team up with Growing Chefs! Ontario to promote the importance of the environment to young people.

"It's important that we not only talk about living sustainably, but that we start doing it," says Wilhelm. "If we can impact children now and give them a long lasting memory of the Grickle Grass Festival where these values are instilled in them, we can begin to see a change."

On Saturday, the Grickle Grass Festival will take over the London Children's Museum, teaching young people the importance of sustainable living through gardening, yoga, reading and dance.

Children and adults alike are invited to help Growing Chefs! plant a vegetable garden at the museum that will be harvested in the fall, visit the reading room where stories about the environment will be read aloud, and participate in aboriginal dance and drumming workshops throughout the day.

After dark, Grickle Grass will entertain the 19-plus crowd late into the night with live music performances in the alternative spaces of the Children's Museum.

After coming in second on Dancing With the Stars, Kirstie Alley says she's done with reality TV.

The 60-year-old actress said Tuesday that her time on Dancing has motivated her to return to acting with new focus and determination.

She said learning to dance on the hit show "re-inspired me with all the things that I've had great success with already and sort of got complacent about."

Alley plans to take on a movie role next month. She's also looking for a new TV series and is considering Broadway.

She confessed she was sad that she and partner Maksim Chmerkovskiy didn't win Dancing. Characterizing herself as "not the average cupcake," she said her partner deserved kudos for making the oldest and heaviest contestant this season into a championship dancer.

The Hangover: Part II

Genre: Comedy

Director: Todd Phillips

Stars: Bradley Cooper, Zach Galifianakis, Ed Helms

Todd Phillips' blockbuster The Hangover most definitely captured lightning in a bottle. But the clever premise also shows that unfortunately lightning rarely strikes twice. It's not that The Hangover: Part II isn't without its funny moments. But because Phillips closely copies the structure of the 2009 hit, the gags are less surprising.

Oprah says her goodbyes

► Winfrey ends her last show with no guests ► Bare-bones finale for talk show host after 25 years on the air

Oprah Winfrey walked on stage for her talk show finale yesterday to a standing ovation from her studio audience before thanking her viewers for watching for a quarter of a century. "Twenty-five years and I'm still saying 'Thank you America,'" Winfrey said. "Thank you so much. There are no words to match this moment."

Winfrey told them that sometimes she was a teacher, but more often her viewers taught her. She called the episode her "last class."

The show's first moment was a clip of Winfrey's first show. She taped the last episode of The Oprah Winfrey Show on Tuesday in Chicago.

Winfrey was the only person on stage with little background music and very short flashback clips. "When she came out, her appearance, the way she stepped on stage and the message she brought about finding yourself, your purpose," said audience member Wanda Nash, 47, of Chicago, an executive assistant and foster parent. "It was all about Oprah."

Winfrey kissed and hugged her longtime partner, Stedman Graham, and made her way through the halls of Harpo Studios, saying goodbye to her staff, audience members said.

Winfrey announced in November 2009 that she would end her popular talk show after 25 years.

Tuesday's taping came a week after Hollywood's A-list and 13,000 fans bid Winfrey farewell during a double-episode extravaganza at Chicago's United Center. They were just a few of the approximately 30,000 guests on the show over 25 years.

Comedians react

Many comedians turned to social media to contemplate a post-Oprah world. Among the notable comments made on Twitter were these:

- "Apparently Oprah is responsible for life on our planet as we know it." - Kevin Nealon.
- "I miss both Oprah and Osama. Is there a way to pair them up for something?" - Michael Ian Black.
- "Oprah Winfrey is so powerful that she had the Rapture postponed until after her final show airs." - Joan Rivers.
- "It seems so unfair! Without Oprah, how are publishers going to continue their cross-fingers/hope-to-win-the-lottery business plan?" - John Hodgman.
- "Jesus will probably be the surprise guest. She got him started." - Paula Poundstone.
- "What can I say about Oprah that she hasn't already said about herself?" - Justin Stangel, co-executive producer of CBS' Late Show.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The bare-bones final taping had its share of celebrities in the audience including Tyler Perry, Maria Shriver, Suze Orman and Cicely Tyson, but none of them joined Winfrey on stage.

The show received 1.4 million ticket requests throughout its final season, the company said.

ALEJANDRO INGELMO. FASHION'S FUTURE SOLE STAR

► Alejandro Ingelmo is a fourth generation shoe maker who, for the second time, is up for a prestigious CFDA award ► He likes sci-fi and hates kitten heels.

KENYA HUNT
METRO WORLD NEWS

It's warm and humid outside and his London showroom doesn't have air conditioning.

But somehow Alejandro Ingelmo manages to look cool, clean and crisp in his white button-down shirt and tie as he walks me through his collection.

His classic, slightly restrained, retro appearance is a bit deceptive, though. This is a man who makes shoes that ooze sex of the futuristic, rock and roll variety and appeal to mega-celebrities like Beyoncé, Jay-Z, Madonna and Justin Timberlake.

Women who frequent the mecca that is his New York store have claimed that his tall stilettos elicit visceral reactions like shortness of breath and heart palpitations. Lucky for you, his e-commerce shop will launch in a few weeks.

Has the fact that you come from such a long line of shoe cobblers helped your career at all?

Well I think I had a harder time. I went to Parsons and went in a totally different direction from my family. I didn't get any help from them. My dad is proud of me, but he doesn't understand what I do at all [laughs].

Are there any common footwear faux pas that you see on the street that make you wince?

I hate those platform shoes with the see-saw on the bottom. What are they called? They're supposed to get rid of cellulite.

But what's the point of those things? They're so bad, and they're everywhere. And I know you girls like them, but Uggs are just Ug-ly, OK?

For the record, I'm with you on the Uggs. Do you design according to what the trends are?

Not really, although I know that there are some people who probably wish I would.

Are there any trends that you feel especially excited or bummed out about now?

I really wasn't into the kitten heel at all. I'm like, either make the effort and commit yourself to the high heel or just wear flats.

Learn how to walk in heels or just wear flats, you know? The kitten heel is just not that sexy.

Do you think that shoes should make a woman look sexy?

I like for my shoes to make a woman not only feel sexy, but confident and strong.

And it's the same with my men's shoes. When I wear the shoes, I want to feel sexy in them. I think we all want that.

Speaking of men's, you have a huge sneaker pimps following. The Tron style is especially hot right now. Are you a big sci-fi fan?

Oh yeah. I had the Tron Atari game when I was young.

It's funny because when I opened my store in New York, I thought I'd have all women's and just a little section of men's shoes. But now it's half women's and half men's. It's fun designing for both.

What are some common mistakes that you see women make when they purchase and wear heels?

Well, a lot of them should practice first. Don't buy more height than you can handle. When a woman goes to the store, she should ask about the pitch of the shoe.

That's something that most women don't think to do. But that's what really determines how high the shoe is, it's not so much about the heel. It's all about what's happening inside the shoe.

And make sure that the shoe can hold your foot in.

You don't want to be walking down the street with your toe slipping out. I think shoes are like clothes; you want to show just the right amount.

When a toe hangs out of the shoe, that's like the footwear equivalent of bad cleavage.

7 deadly decorating trends

► Karl Lohnes reveals the seven home decorating trends NOT to fall in love with in 2011

DESIGN CENTRE

KARL LOHNES
HOME@
METRONEWS.CA

It's easy to get caught up in the new trends each year, and so far 2011 has brought forward a huge change in home decor. The 1970s and early 1980s are dominating the looks; from punchy patterns, shiny metallics to the heaven-help-us colours of painted appliances.

Trends usually come in three timelines: five-year trends like flooring, paint colours and furniture pieces; two-year trends like bedding, towels and lighting and then seasonal trends like candles, faux florals and table-top accessories. In short, the more money you spend on something, the longer it should fit its trend life.

Here's a roundup of this year's biggest decor trends that you'd be best staying away from.

ALL PHOTOS CONTRIBUTED

Grey power

All this trendy grey colour that we've been seeing is simply a way to ease our eyes away from the golden-taupe colours we were decorating with over the past 10 years.

Unfortunately grey will only be around for about one to two years so use it sparingly. Want a bit of grey to update your space and feel trendy? I suggest using it in small amounts like painting a powder room or adding grey bed sheets. For paint, choose cooler/grey-based paint colours; shadowy, cool colours are what's important to achieve, not the actual colour of grey.

Antique brass

There's a popularity of getting away from the shiny chrome and nickel plated finishes and going toward and unpolished brass; certainly a dramatic change. Unpolished brass, like grey paint colours is being used as a catalyst to get us away from the silvery-tones metals. I suggest using old brass finishes only on old traditionally inspired pieces. A classic old-fashioned wall sconce or brass nailhead trim on the edge of a leather wingback chair will belong forever.

Large print wallpaper

Large floral prints, metallic and velvet flocking are all reminiscent of the 1970s. Anyone who just removed the original stuff hung 40 years ago sure as heck will never be hanging it again.

I suggest using this new trend in a very selective way; use it on one wall as a focal point like behind a bed.

For less of a commitment, frame the trendy stuff in large, inexpensive Ikea frames and hang in groupings. If wallpapering the walls, be sure to prime the walls properly so that when the time comes the paper can be easily removed.

Honeysuckle pink

That bright, rich pink is (by The Pantone Institute standards) the colour of 2011. It is an optimistic colour which is 'good for the times' they say. The only way I would use it is if Pantone could magically turn me into a teenage girl. Pink is one of the most difficult colours to accept in decorating although if used properly, it becomes unnoticeable. How to use: Have it as a third colour in the room, not first or second. Some great colour combinations to incorporate pink: grey/teal/pink or brown/beige/pink.

1970s-inspired furnishings

Chrome tubular, caramel leather, owl-motifs, useless ceramic and pottery figurines are iconic of the 1970s and will most likely be admired by some born after 1970.

How to use: Selectively, one '70s classic piece can absorb itself into the room without being overly noticeable and add some charm.

Greige-stained wood tones

It's that driftwood coloured finish on wood; think of old, worn oak that has been bleached by the sun; similar to driftwood in its texture and colour. It is meant to get our eye excited about something more than just dark espresso wood tones and we are seeing it mainly on traditional-shaped furniture. How to use: in all white rooms, a small furniture piece in a guest room; it's considered the look of new country so if country decorating is your thing... go for it.

Coloured appliances

Cobalt blue, red, hunter green and orange; everybody remembers (or has seen) the avocado-coloured fridge and harvest-gold stove. Enough said.

How to use the new brightly coloured appliance trend: incorporate in a Mondrian-inspired kitchen using red glossy cupboards, yellow rubber floors, cobalt blue appliances, white countertops... A chop-a-block of colour could look kind of cool... please don't add hunter green coloured appliances to a golden colonial oak kitchen — yuck.

Update your old Furniture

► Revamping your furniture on a budget can be easy ► Experts offer a few tips for giving your worn furnishings a second life

For many homeowners, spring has brought the itch for change but not the money to do much about it.

But that doesn't mean you're stuck with Aunt Edna's floral couch another year.

More and more homeowners are rolling up their sleeves and refurbishing tables, chairs and couches themselves, designers say.

"Frugality and practicality are still at the forefront of people's minds right now, so updating and making the best of what you already have is a surefire way to save money and recycle," said Rachael Liska, senior editor at Fresh Home magazine.

It may seem daunting, especially if you're a do-it-yourself newbie, but starting small and taking your time can ease stress or anxiety.

"Think about getting a haircut, jewelry or clothes for yourself. You don't have to completely remake a piece. You can get a lot of bang for your buck, even if you're not super handy," said Danielle Claro, home editor at Real Simple magazine.

Painting

Painting is by far the easiest way to spruce up an old piece of furniture.

A dull pine table can become a sleek modern piece with a coat or two of glossy black paint.

Enamel paint is cheap, and spray paints now come in almost any colour you can imagine, and adhere to just about any surface, said Cindy Thomas, editor and owner of Frugalsimplicity.com.

Claro suggested painting a mirror's frame with a glossy colour, or taking an old wooden Windsor chair and sanding it, priming it and coating it with a fresh spring colour like orange or turquoise.

Emily Henderson, host of HGTV's Secrets From A Stylist, offers a strict rule for painting furniture: "If the pieces are over 50 years old, don't do it," she said. "You'll lose the charm and age that makes the piece beautiful."

Staining/waxing

Instead of painting, Henderson suggests stripping and waxing old furniture to bring out the wood's beauty and colour.

Stripping and staining is a bit more work but is still a relatively inexpensive way to change things up while keeping the furniture's original look.

Don't choose a stain that's much darker than the natural wood, Henderson said, but "stick in the same tone of wood."

Embellishing/accessorizing

Painting and staining are tried-and-true techniques for updating furniture, but Liska says a fresher take is to try gilding, decoupaging, decal-ing, or embellishing old pieces with materials such as decorative nail heads, leather trim, cording and tassels.

Reupholstering

Reupholstering is a lot of work and takes practice. But Henderson swears by reupholstering and says it's not that hard if you stick to the right fabrics.

"I buy pieces for $100 and reupholster them for $200 or $300," she said.

"It's a one-of-a-kind piece and it's customized for you."

Make it a Tex-Mex night

► These Fajitas offer a twist by using beef & asparagus ► The Enchilada Roll-Ups are made in the slow cooker while you enjoy the warm weather

These colourful beef fajitas are filled with vegetables. Set out bowls of lettuce, chopped tomato, shredded cheese and sour cream and let the Tex-Mex fun begin!

Preparation:

- 1 In a bowl, stir together chili powder, cumin, salt and pepper; rub into both sides of steak.
- 2 In a bowl, combine asparagus, mushrooms, garlic, peppers, onion, oil and oregano. Then stack tortillas and double wrap in foil.
- 3 Place steak on greased grill and vegetables in grilling basket over medium-high heat.

Close lid and grill steak until medium-rare, about 8 minutes, turning once. Transfer steak to cutting board; tent with foil. Let stand for 5 minutes.

- 4 Grill vegetables, tossing occasionally, until tender-crisp, 8 to 10 minutes. Meanwhile, place tortillas on grill and warm through, about 3 minutes.

- 5 To serve, slice steak thinly across grain. In bowl, combine steak, vegetables and cilantro. Serve with tortillas and desired accompaniment.
THE CANADIAN PRESS/FOODLAND ONTARIO

► This recipe will serve six.

Ingredients:

- 7 ml (1 1/2 tsp) each chili powder and ground cumin
- 1 ml (1/4 tsp) each salt and pepper
- 500 g (1 lb) grilling steak
- 500 g (1 lb) asparagus, trimmed; cut into quarters

- 625 ml (2 1/2 cups) sliced white mushrooms
- 4 cloves garlic, minced
- 2 sweet peppers, sliced
- 1 onion, thinly sliced
- 20 ml (4 tsp) vegetable oil
- 2 ml (1/2 tsp) dry oregano
- 6 whole-wheat tortillas
- 50 ml (1/4 cup) cilantro

Enchilada Roll-Ups

Preparation:

- 1 Cut each chicken breast lengthwise into 2 or 3 strips. Combine chicken with 125 ml (1/2 cup) flour and salt in a resealable bag; shake to coat.
- 2 Heat butter in stoneware of slow cooker on stove top. Brown chicken, 3 minutes per side. Add broth, scrape up brown bits. Transfer stoneware to slow cooker base. Add onion, jalapeno pepper, oregano. Cover; cook on low 6 to 7 hours.

- 3 In bowl, blend 30 ml (2 tbsp) flour and milk until smooth. Stir into chicken mix. Cook, uncovered, on high for 15 mins, or until thicker.

- 4 Spoon mix onto centre of flour tortillas. Fold; garnish with grated cheese and olives.

One more round for Canucks

DARRYL DYCK/THE CANADIAN PRESS

► Vancouver firing on all cylinders heading into Stanley Cup final

The excitement rippling through the Vancouver Canucks is tempered with the realization the biggest prize hasn't been won yet.

The Canucks, who have never hoisted a Stanley Cup, will be playing in the final for the first time in 17 years. They have the chance to become the first team since the 1993 Montreal Canadiens to bring the NHL championship home to Canada.

A bunch of grown men are living the dream. It's the fantasy of every kid that shoots a ball playing street hockey, or takes that first wobbling step on the ice wearing skates and carrying a stick.

"All the hard work through my life, now I have the chance to battle for the Stanley Cup," said forward Alex Burrows.

"We have to refocus, re-energize and get used to it."

Vancouver fans, who have endured 40 years of hope, frustration and disappointment, heaped loads of expectations on the best Canucks team in franchise history.

"I'm extremely proud of my players, the organization," said coach Alain Vigneault. "Real happy for the fans."

"This has been a long time coming. Like we said at the start of the season, we were in this not to win one round (of the playoffs), two rounds, three rounds, but to get into this to win the Stanley Cup. Now we're going to get the opportunity to compete for it."

The Canucks used defenceman Kevin Bieksa's goal in double overtime Tuesday night to defeat the San Jose Sharks 3-2. Vancouver won the best-of-seven NHL Western Conference final 4-1.

"When it went in, I just yelled out 'Let's go to the Cup,'" said Bieksa. "It's a good feeling."

The winning goal came on a strange play after a puck hit a stanchion along the side boards. Everyone seemed to lose sight of it except Bieksa at the blue-line, who slapped it in.

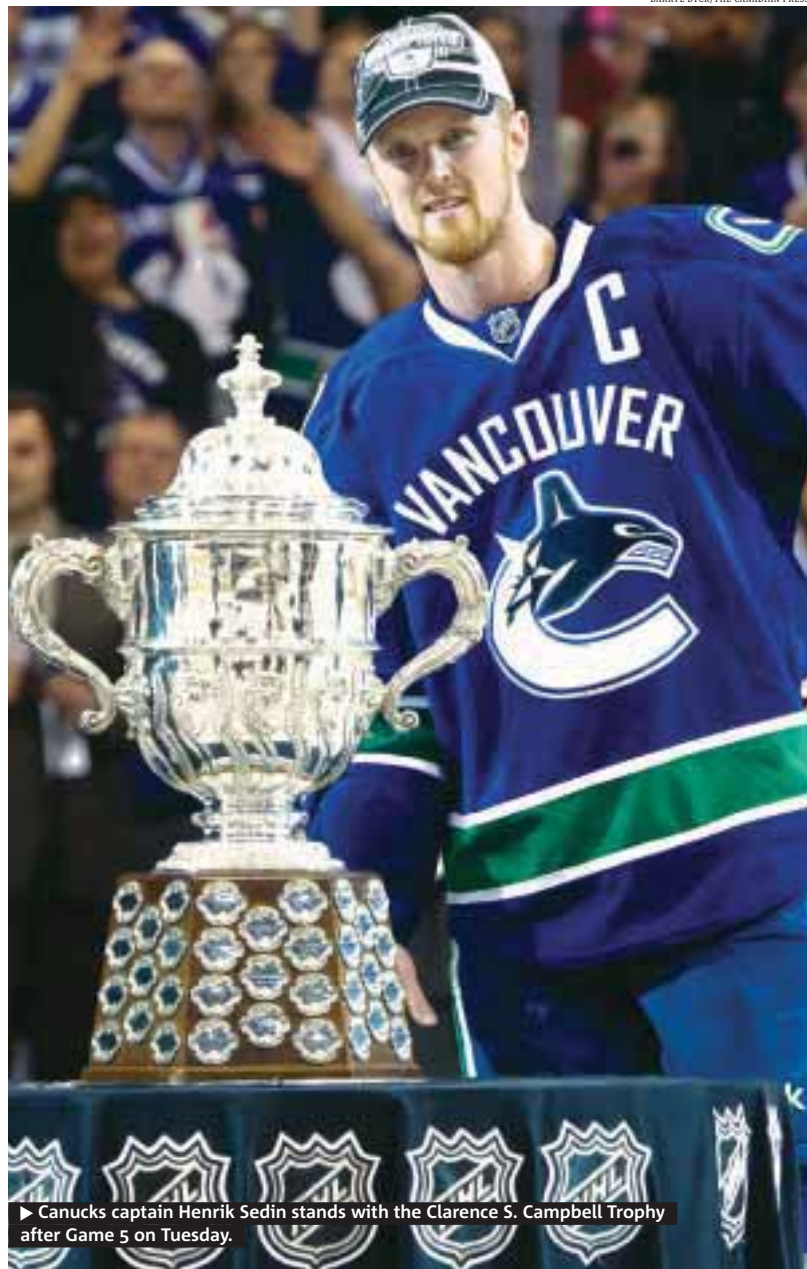

THE CANADIAN PRESS

Crowd concerns

The last time the Canucks made it to the Stanley Cup final, it ended in riots in the streets of Vancouver.

- Police Chief Jim Chu is hoping the atmosphere seen during the Olympics wins out in the final.
- "If you were a hooligan during the Olympics, the crowd policed itself," Chu said.

Djokovic, Federer advance at French Open

Novak Djokovic's perfect season is still intact and his clay-court form still looks devastating after he reached the third round of the French Open when Victor Hanesu retired yesterday because of injury.

The second-seeded Serb, who joined 2009 champion Roger Federer in the third round at Roland Garros, improved to 39-0 in 2011 after Hanesu retired while trailing 6-4, 6-1, 2-3.

No.1 Djokovic will be assured of the No. 1 ranking in men's tennis for the first time if he makes the final.

Federer defeated French wild card Maxime Teixeira

6-3, 6-0, 6-2

Vancouver's Rebecca Marino is moving on to the third round at a Grand Slam for the first time after a win over Spain's Maria Jose Martinez Sanchez. Aleksandra Wozniak of Blainville, Que., was knocked out of the draw by No. 1 seed Caroline Wozniacki. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sports in brief

Rose pleads guilty to DUI

NBA. Former Toronto Raptor Jalen Rose pleaded guilty yesterday to drunk driving, admitting to a judge that he got behind the wheel after drinking six martinis and wound up crashing his SUV.

Rose faces up to 93 days in jail and a $500 US fine.

He was arrested March 11 after his Cadillac Escalade crashed northwest of Detroit. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

► The Heat's LeBron James guards Derrick Rose of the Bulls in Game 5 of the East finals in Miami.

Big 3 turn up Heat on Bulls

► Miami defence has zoned in on Chicago offence, including MVP Rose

LeBron James is doing it all for Miami, hitting big shots and clamping down on MVP Derrick Rose.

The Heat lead the Chicago Bulls 3-1 in the Eastern Conference finals and a win tonight in Chicago means they'll be playing for a championship.

That's exactly the way James, Dwyane Wade and Chris Bosh envisioned it when they decided to join forces in the off-season. Miami is on the verge of the finals after a 101-93 overtime win on Tuesday.

James led the way with 35 points and helped contain Rose down the stretch. Bosh chipped in with 22, Wade came up with three big blocks in overtime and the bench delivered.

Now, they'll try to close this one out.

"We understand it's going to be a tough game," Wade said. "But we have the team and we have the guys that are capable of showing up and putting on a performance that we need to win the game. It's not going to be pretty, but that's not Miami Heat basketball anyway."

The Bulls' first three-game skid of the season could not have come at a worse time.

"When you look at the score, 3-1, it looks bad,"

The Bulls dropped consecutive games only four times during the regular season and never lost more than two in a row.

Chicago's Luol Deng said.

But he was quick to point out the games have been close. That's one reason he insisted the Bulls are not out of it.

"I really believe we've got a group of guys that are going to keep on fighting," Deng said. "There's no quit in us. There's no quit in that locker-room. It's really going to come down to the end of the game again."

The Bulls surprised many this season by jumping to a league-leading 62 wins, with Rose becoming the youngest ever MVP.

Along the way, they swept three close games from the Heat during the regular season. They even left them in tears after beating them in March, when they were in a five-game losing streak and appeared to be unraveling.

Now it's Miami that has Chicago's players and coach of the year Tom Thibodeau rubbing their eyes.

COACHING HIRE

Lakers turn to LeBron's ex-coach

The Los Angeles Lakers reached a deal in principle with former Cleveland coach Mike Brown yesterday to succeed Phil Jackson, according to a person with knowledge of the discussions.

Brown will get a four-year deal worth roughly $18 million US, according to the person who spoke to The Associated Press on condition of anonymity because Brown hadn't yet been formally hired.

The Lakers released a statement later yesterday confirming the club hopes to make Brown the 22nd coach in franchise history.

► Mike Brown

"We've met with Mike and are very impressed with him," said the statement from the Lakers' public relations. "In addition, we have an outline for an agreement in place and hope to sign a contract within the next few days."

With a strong interview last weekend, Brown became the top candidate for the daunting challenge of succeeding the 11-time NBA champion Jackson with one of the NBA's iconic franchises. The Lakers' 16 NBA titles trail only the Boston Celtics' 17 in league history.

Rather than promoting one of Jackson's assistant coaches, the Lakers are changing course after an abrupt end to their two-year title reign.

Kobe Bryant endorsed Jackson assistant Brian Shaw for the job, but Jim Buss — the Lakers' executive vice-president of player personnel and the son of owner Jerry Buss — became intrigued by Brown after the interview.

A respected tactician with a strong pedigree, Brown has experience with big games and stars, even if he couldn't get LeBron James a title.

"Mike Brown is a great coach," James said in Miami. "I respect him. He definitely helped me become who I am today."

Coaches jump into NFL labour court battle

NFL coaches are teaming up with the players in their legal fight to end the owner-imposed lockout.

The NFL Coaches Association filed a brief with the 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday expressing support for the players and saying that the lockout is putting their jobs in jeopardy.

"Owners and fans increasingly demand immediate success, and coaches whose teams cannot fulfil such severe expectations face likely dismissal, which means the uprooting of families, economic dislocation and a significantly less promising career path," lawyers for the NFLCA wrote.

No individual coaches were identified in the brief, which said that the eight new coaches hired this year face particularly daunting odds of success if the lockout is not lifted soon. The NFL grants new coaches two extra summer minicamps to get players familiar with the new staff, and the elimination of those camps puts them at a competitive disadvantage heading into the season.

"To meet management's expectations, coaches need adequate time in the off-season to prepare their players for the season ahead," the filing said. "Each day lost in preparing for the season further diminishes coaches' opportunities to prove themselves and advance their career."

NFL spokesman Greg Aiello said the league was not surprised by the filing.

"The Coaches Association offices with the Players Association in Washington," Aiello wrote in an email to The Associated Press. "So this comes as no surprise."

The 8th Circuit has set a June 3 hearing to hear arguments on whether the lockout is legal. A federal judge in St. Paul, Minn., initially ruled that the lockout was illegal, but the 8th Circuit put a stay on that ruling pending the appeal.
